Permanent eyelashes

- the new thing in the town dos and don'ts

Permanent Eyelashes are linked to your natural lash hair and are semi-permanent lashes that have recently gained popularity among millennial beauty enthusiasts. They are an improvement over applying artificial lashes and are known to last for several weeks.

Eyelash extensions have become a sought-after operation due to the increased popularity of permanent makeup techniques like lip blushing (a type of tattoo) and eyebrow microblading. It reduces the amount of time needed for makeup greatly and is painless. They are made to last for the six to two months that natural lash development typically takes. Maintenance is necessary during this period to keep the extensions looking new and natural.

Although the information on eyelash extensions is rather simple, more is needed to allow one to decide whether or not to get them. So here we provide you the basic dos and don'ts of eyelash extension.

Do's

1. Have your eyelash extensions attached by a trained, licensed cosmetologist or aesthetician in a spotless setting.
2. Request a list of the components that went into making the glue. Any adhesive that contains formaldehyde should not be used. Formaldehyde is a toxin that can irritate the skin and trigger allergic reactions.
3. Make sure latex isn't listed as an ingredient if you have a latex allergy.
4. Ensure that the surgical adhesive being used by your doctor is not nailed glue.
5. Make sure your healthcare provider sterilizes their tools, washes their hands, and offers you fresh bedding or towels to relax on.
6. Ask to have a patch test performed on your arm a few days prior to the surgery if you have sensitive skin or product allergies, such as those to makeup.

Don'ts

1. Before getting your eyelashes wet, you should wait at least 24 hours after getting eyelash extensions. Every time we should get them filled, Doctor's advice must be taken.

2. Avoid tanning, working out, grilling, and blow-drying your hair for at least 24 hours. Steam and moisture may cause the adhesive holding your eyelashes in place to lose its tenacity. So avoid them. After 24 hours, the binding ought to be sturdy and impervious to moisture.

3. The usage of an eyelash curler can make your extension fall out, therefore avoid using it.

FAQs

1. When you put them on, do they hurt?

Not at ALL! Since you probably have never had someone play with your eyelashes before, it may seem a little unusual at first, but once you get over that, it's actually quite calming. As you wait for them to be filled, you might nod off. It's difficult not to feel comfortable when you're lying down, music is playing, and your eyes are closed the entire time.

2. How long do they last?

My natural lashes last between three and four weeks, but that really varies on the individual and how rapidly they fall off.

Permanent Eyelashes - the new thing in the town

Do's and Don'ts

Concluding Remarks

Premature extension shedding or loss is the most common result of not adhering to the dos and don'ts. Your extensions will therefore not last as long, necessitating an earlier completion date.

Additionally, there may be more severe repercussions if you do not take good care of your eyelashes, such as:

1. Harm to natural eyelashes
2. Angry and red eyes
3. Swollen eyelids
4. Infected eyes from bacteria

It can be concluded that if you want beautiful eyes with glazing eyelashes you can go for eyelashes extension. Here in this article, we have provided you with every detail to help you get a painless transformation.

Pre-Bridal v/s Bridal Makeup

For every girl her wedding is one super special day. If you are getting married soon yourself, you can only imagine how stressed you are, which is bad for the quality of your skin.

Every bride desires a distinctive bridal look because her wedding day is the most significant occasion in her life. Ladke Wale and Ladki Wale both have a tendency to celebrate weddings with a lot of pomp and circumstance, making them similar to festive seasons in India. It is not a piece of cake to find a dress for your big day, how it is possible to find a perfect bridal look?

Who don't want to look pretty on her most memorable day since it's about the wedding? It happens once in a lifetime and every bride's dream is to look beautiful on the day of her marriage. Applying makeup is not only important however getting clean skin from deep is something to consider too.

So here comes the role of bridal makeup.

A beautiful bridal makeup consists of two stages:

- 1. Pre-bridal
- 2. Bridal

Pre-bridal Makeup

The bride's makeup for occasions before her wedding is referred to as pre-bridal makeup. A luxury wedding is preceded by many pre-wedding activities, such as purchasing makeup for her pre-wedding picture session, getting mehndi, having a sangeet, getting engaged, etc. Pre-bridal makeup visits may include skin exfoliation, body washing, hair removal, and even lovely nail paint. A future bride should begin these sessions at least two months before the wedding.

As the Bride approaches her wedding, the charm around her face starts to get noticed more and more. But is she ready for that? A pre-bridal makeup that starts 3-5 months prior to her wedding is the solution for almost 100% of her skincare issues. Here are some quick tips which will help a bride go through the phase of these 3-5 months in a hunky-dory way.

1. Hair Dusting: All brides should receive hair dusting because, after all, you don't want split ends on your wedding day. You can get rid of damaged hair tips by cleaning your hair.

2. Facial: Every bride requires a facial before her wedding. Depending on the type of skin, one can pick from several facials. The greatest facials for skin rejuvenation include gold, aromatherapy, deep washing, vitamin C brightening, etc.

3. Body polishing treatment: This procedure moisturizes and exfoliates the skin, leaving it smooth. Additionally, body polishing is paired with massage, which calms both the body and the psyche.

After all, these processes and ways here come the most precious and awaited day for the bride i.e her wedding day.

Bridal Makeup

Bridal makeup unites the entire appearance, therefore careful planning is required. Trials are essential because they can make or break your appearance on your wedding day. Remember that a lack of preparation can lead to serious cosmetic mistakes, last-minute stress, and a lot of uncertainty. If you want things to go smoothly on your wedding day, arrange your makeup well in advance.

Therefore, the following advice should be kept in mind if you want to look gorgeous in your wedding.

1. Makeup based on culture

When considering bridal makeup, it's essential to keep in mind that Indian weddings are all about traditions and rituals and that the bridal makeup varies as a result. For instance, the bridal makeup for a south Indian bride will differ greatly from that of a Bengali bride. A Bengali bride's eyes are the focal point of her look, so find a professional who can give you the ideal bridal look.

2. Waterproof makeup

Make sure to only get waterproof cosmetics that will remain in place throughout the day. Take extra caution when purchasing eye makeup because one or two upsetting situations can instantly destroy the beautiful smokey eye appearance. If you start to feel teary-eyed or perspiring, dab a little bit rather than wiping it off.

3. Time management is important

Bridal makeup often takes at least two hours since you need faultless precision. But you need to make sure you have a lot more time on hand. Call your makeup artist at least three hours before you leave for your wedding.

I hope all this information will help you apply makeup that is best for your skin type and give you a perfect complexion that will keep people's attention on you.

As Bobbi Brown said, "All women are pretty without makeup — but with the right makeup they can be pretty powerful."

BEARD GROOMING TIPS

LET'S CONTINUE NOW THAT YOU HAVE THE BEARD OF YOUR DREAMS AND PERHAPS EVEN A FASHIONABLE MOUSTACHE TO GO WITH IT. THE LIFESTYLE IS FANTASTIC, AND OTHER GUYS ARE ENVIOUS.

However, things don't end there.

Maintaining your wonderful appearance with proper beard upkeep is the next stage, which is equally important. It's like driving a fancy automobile, really. Do you mistreat it by giving it poor maintenance after you buy it? Do you regularly forget to wash it? Obviously, you don't.

Here are detailed tips on how to maintain a beard. We break everything down for you and also offer the fundamentals of combing, brushing, washing, styling your beard, and more.

Washing your beard frequently

This will help remove product buildup and residue.. Regularly washing your beard may seem like an easy task, but if carried out incorrectly, it could lower the bar for your beard. Use a foam cleanser for short beards, which is great for removing makeup and hydrating the skin behind your facial hair.

Steps that should be kept in

- Wet your hands with warm water.
- Apply a small amount of beard foam or shampoo to your hands and gently massage it into your facial hair.
- Once the product has lathered and you have properly cleaned all of your hair, rinse with warm water.
- Apply Beard Oil upon drying

Apply Beard Oil

Your beard is lubricated when you apply beard oil to it. It's a great method for giving your beard some lustre and keeping it feeling soft and silky while also adding hydration to the skin underneath.

If you're not sure how to utilise it properly, just follow these simple instructions:

Use your oil after taking a shower or bath because your hair will be clean and ready to take it in. Add two or three drops of beard oil on the palm of your hand (you can always add more if you need it). You can warm the oil by squeezing your hands collectively. Make sure the coating on your hands is even. With your hands, stroke the front, sides, and moustache of your beard. Comb your beard to style it and distribute the oil.

Selection Of the Right Beard For Your Face

You must select the appropriate beard style for your face shape, just like you would for the hair on your head.

You can choose from a variety of designs that will suit your face and appearance, so don't worry about your jawline.

Regular Trim And Care

Make friends with the barber in your neighbourhood and arrange regular beard trims. Remember that doing so will maintain your beard appearing neat and well-groomed.

-Vaibhab Jain

Takeaway

The beard has always been linked with more assertive masculinity, and in recent years, it has become a popular hipster style. Celebrities and athletes began enjoying the bearded appearance. It is more than just an identity to many people.

A beard gives a man a suave and refined feeling. Only men who are able to maintain their beards with regular shampooing, oiling, and care can make them seem attractive.

Trivia- About Beard care

What if i tell you that a man and his beard share a lifelong story.

From the very age when he goes to his college and notices the charm of a beard, he tries to get one and after getting one, gives his whole life maintaining it.

There are a lot of articles on the internet which will give you beard maintenance tips, but we are here to give you some interesting trivias about your beard.

Yes, about your most loved beard!

We will give you some points, after reading which, you will not only be surprised, but also happy.

Excited?

Let's start then.

Here we go.

Beards Are Effective Jellyfish Defenses

Consider growing a beard for optimal defence if you ever find yourself preparing for a lengthy competition swim. Sean Conway, the first person to cycle, swim, and run the full length of Great Britain, kept a beard to protect his face from jellyfish stings while swimming.

Unbelievably, beards shield your face from the sun when you spend all day outside having fun. Beards provide 90% to 95% protection from dangerous UV radiation, according to a University of Southern Queensland study that was published in the Radiation Protection Dosimetry. There were UPF ratings between 2 and 21. Therefore, beards can aid in preventing skin cancer too.

The longest beard in the world is over 17 feet long

American-Norwegian Hans Langseth holds the record for having the longest beard ever documented. Langseth's beard measured 5.33m, or 17 feet, 6 inches, in length in 1927.

A irrational fear of beards does exists

Yes!

Some people become frightened the moment they see a beard. Pogonophobia is the name given to this condition. There are a number of potential causes for this phobia, however researchers have discovered that Pogonophobia is typically brought on by a traumatic event.

A beard made of testicular hair was worn by the Rock

Surprised?

But yes you read that correctly. Dwayne Johnson consented to don a beard made of yak testicular hair while filming Hercules. Every day that Johnson was on set, it took three hours to apply the beard, according to Johnson. Such dedication is impressive.

Beards Can Promote Skin Healing

If your razor isn't completely clean, it can contaminate your face with dirt and bacteria. When you stop shaving and allow your beard grow out if you have sensitive skin, your face will have more time to recover and mend itself.

In the British Army, You Need a Special Rank to Have a Beard

Not every British Army soldier is permitted to sport a beard. Although there are now occasional exceptions, in usually the Pioneer Sergeant is the only rank to wear a beard.

Since the 1700s, the Pioneer Sergeant has served as the military unit's all-around macho man, clearing routes and working as a blacksmith.

Beer Gets Trapped in Your Beard

According to a study done by Guinness, a moustache traps around 1.5 pints of beer annually. Anyone would want to shave after seeing such waste.

So, here was the story of your beard. We really hope that you enjoyed the story of your beard, but through our words. Keep reading and keep loving your beard.

75% of males shave their faces daily

According to estimates, 75% of men groom their facial hair on a daily basis. When you stop and think about it, that amount of time adds up, even if you're just giving some spots a fast brush through with your raiser.

Hair Oil v/s Hair Serum

If you are a young girl, having long and shiny hair, it's fantastic. But what if you are not?

We will tell you how to be one.

After reading the last line of this article, you will not only be thanking us but also carefully looking at the mirror and admiring your hair's beauty.

In this article, we will tell you about the tips and tricks to keep your hair long and healthy. And in the process, we will be discussing the usage of hair oil and serum and also the differences between them.

Various benefits of oiling your hair:

Pouring hair oil on your head and rubbing it has become a widespread technique since the era of Ayurveda. It keeps your hair shiny and moisturized. Oiling your hair has a number of benefits, including:

1) Nourishing the scalp

Your blood circulation will improve when you gently massage hair oil into your scalp, which will assist your scalp. The roots of your hair are nourished, and dryness is prevented.

2) It might encourage hair growth.

On occasion, it has been observed that timely, effective hair oiling can speed hair growth. But not all hair types can pull it off.

3) Offers strength to your hair

Oiling your hair gives strength to the root of your hair and hence provides longevity to your hair.

Instructions for oiling your hair:

- How should hair oil be used for the best results? You can correctly apply hair oil by following the instructions indicated below.
- Apply a teaspoon of hair oil to the scalp and gently massage it with your fingertips.
- Move your palm gently along the length of your hair to coat any remaining oil on your palm after applying oil to your scalp (make sure your fingers are covered in oil).
- Once your hands have thoroughly massaged your scalp, cover it with a towel or piece of fabric. By doing this, you can prevent having dirty hair.
- Allow the oil to remain in your hair overnight.
- Wash your hair, then dry it with a soft blow dryer.

Hair Serum

Hair serum, a silicon-based product, is used as a styling aid. Your hair is given an additional layer of defense, is made shiny, and is prevented from tangling. It also moisturizes your hair and protects it from the effects of the environment.

The active ingredients in hair serum also include argan oil, vitamin E, and rose water in addition to silicon. It keeps your hair moisturized, reduces frizz, and makes combing and maintaining your hair easier.

Types of hair serum

There are numerous types of hair serums on the market. To choose the appropriate one, all you need to do is be aware of your hair type, preferred style, and haircare needs.

Here are the various types of hair serums you should know-

1. Moisturising hair serum- If you have dry hair and split ends, moisturizing hair serums may help with moisture and UV damage without making your hair look oily.
2. Straightening hair serum- If you have frizzy hair that becomes tough to manage in humid weather, a straightening hair serum is for you.
3. Growth hair serum- Growth hair serum improves blood flow to the scalp which helps in hair growth and gives your hair a hydrated, healthy appearance.

How to Apply Hair Serum?

Pour a few drops of the serum of your choice onto your palm and rub it for a few seconds. Apply the serum to the tips of your hair up to the middle part once it has evenly distributed. Make sure to avoid the hair roots to keep your scalp from appearing oily. After using the serum, brush your hair to aid in detangling and the serum's even distribution. If you want to give your hair thermal protection before blow-drying or using heat on it, don't forget to use hair serums. However, serum should be applied after blow-drying if your ultimate goal is to enhance shine.

Concluding Lines

Both hair serum and hair oil are products designed to fix your hair problems. Both are equally efficient at preventing environmental deterioration and dryness as well as enhancing the luster and shine of hair. Serums should be your first choice, nevertheless, for protection against UV rays, humidity, pollution, and excesses.

Hair oils should be chosen for hair growth, strengthening, and treating dullness, breakage, and split ends. In other words, whereas hair serums are known for their short-term effects, natural conditioners like hair oils are renowned for their long-term therapy and nourishment.

Hence, the usage of hair oil and serum both are helpful per your needs. And with this article, we really hope that we have cleared all your doubts on the same. So get ready to adore your long, shining, beautiful, and glazing hair.

Curley's Hair Care Tips

Healthy, bouncy curls of hair are excellent. However, how can the wish come true? Everyone will respond differently to that question. Hair care, and especially maintaining curls, is highly individualized.

When it comes to caring, curly hair needs some specific considerations. You must be cautious when washing, drying and styling your hair because curly hair is more likely to be dry and tangle-prone than straight hair. You should keep your hair hydrated and restrict how frequently you shampoo.

However, you'll be on the right track if you have the appropriate information, professional counsel, and products.

Here are some tips from us on how to maintain curly hair.

1. Avoid over-shampooing

For healthy hair growth, shampooing is still essential for curly hair because it removes all the oil, debris, and dust accumulation that we don't want. Focus on thoroughly rubbing and cleaning your scalp with your fingertips when shampooing.

It's crucial to avoid over-washing curly hair because it is typically prone to being dry. Excessive shampooing will further dry out your curls because it opens up the cuticles and removes the natural oils from the hair.

2. Dry your hair with a cotton towel

Scrunch the remaining water in your hair after gently drying it with a cotton towel or t-shirt. Avoid rubbing your hair with a rough towel as this might open the cuticles and make your hair frizzy. then allow the air to dry.

Do not disturb your curls in any way while they are drying, under any circumstances! They might frizz up if you play with them or run your fingers through them, it is the first thing you want to avoid.

It's crucial to avoid over-washing curly hair because it is typically prone to being dry. Excessive shampooing will further dry out your curls because it opens up the cuticles and removes the natural oils from the hair.

3. Always brush your hair after it dry

Before taking a shower, only comb your hair through with a wide tooth comb; afterward, finger combs it softly. Keep in mind that if you're combing damp hair, you should be extremely patient and gentle because wet hair is more likely to break.

It's crucial to avoid over-washing curly hair because it is typically prone to being dry. Excessive shampooing will further dry out your curls because it opens up the cuticles and removes the natural oils from the hair.

4. Overheating may become dangerous for your hair

Your curls may lose their spiral-like natural structure due to overheating, which may make them appear lifeless. If you see this, for a week or two, refrain from using any form of heat (including the diffuser-equipped blow dryer!) and concentrate on rehydrating your curls to restore their bounce. Use moderate heat settings and heat protectants whenever you use hot styling equipment.

5. Get a professional hairstylist

Having your hair cut by a professional hairstylist who has prior experience working with curly hair and who actually understands the science and all the advantages of having curly hair can make all the difference in the world. It's more probable that a great haircut will encourage you to give up the straightener and appreciate your natural curls more than anything else.

FAQs

1. Could you straighten your curls?

Yes, if you want to straighten your curls, you are welcome to do so. On the other hand, doing it regularly in extreme temperatures will likely have negative long-term effects. If maintaining the health and integrity of your curls is important to you, think about how frequently you heat style your hair. Always apply a heat protectant, and cool it off if you see the hair fibre becoming coarser.

2. What makes up an effective curly hair care routine?

A good hair care routine hydrates the hair fiber, relaxes the scalp, and preserves the shape of your curls. It also integrates seamlessly into your life.

Takeaway

Care for curls is highly individualized. Your selections will depend on the type of curls you have as well as other factors including length, porosity, scalp type, and lifestyle.

Your curls are beautiful and only two people on this earth know this. It's you and us. So, we will help you with keeping your curly hair soft and smooth.

Skincare in winters

Does your face feel stiffer and dryer throughout the winter?

You're not alone, though, as this is one of the most prevalent winter skincare problems.

Our water consumption tends to decline throughout the winter months along with the air's humidity level. These two elements may cause skin to become drier. Therefore, maintaining a healthy level of hydration while using a face cream or moisturiser that is suitable for winter is essential.

If we had no winter, the spring would not be so pleasant: if we did not sometimes taste of adversity, prosperity would not be so welcome. ”

--Anne Bradstreet

The skin on the rest of your body may become dry, much as the skin on your face. Patches that are dry, flaky, and irritating are how this shows up. Change to a moisturising product that is suitable for winter and use it twice daily to keep your skin moisturised (in the morning and at night). Lowering the water's temperature when having a shower is another approach to make sure that your body doesn't lose moisture. Despite being pleasant, hot water can be very harsh on your skin.

This quote truly fits into place with winters, but you must also be saying that if there was non wintre, there would be no skin care tensions too. But, what if we tell you, you can manage your skin care in winters with very easy steps.

-Saundarya Chauhan

Defend against water contact

Before entering the shower or bath, try applying a washing oil to the skin. Keep it on while you wash or soak, and take it off right before you get out. Apply your skincare or body care right away to merely moist skin. This will keep skin soft and aid in moisture retention.

Pay special attention to your lips and eye area

Here, the skin is thinner and has few or no oil glands, so it is less protected. Use skin-soothing and protective serums and oils around the eyes. Use occlusive balms on the lips to provide a protective layer against the environment.

Purchase a humidifier

The skin is challenged by the harsh winter weather since there is less dampness inside and outside. By keeping the air from getting too dry, using a humidifier aids in replenishing the epidermis' top layer.

Utilize a weekly honey mask three times

Do this at night after you've taken off your makeup. Honey is a naturally occurring humectant, which means it holds moisture. Your skin will instantly glow beautifully as a result of this. Don't neglect your neck and leave on for 10 to 15 minutes.

Add lipids to your daily routine

A top-notch moisturiser with potent antioxidants and lipids is necessary. To prepare the skin for the winter months and keep it balanced while providing protection, use a rich cream with insulating elements like grapeseed oil.

Put on sunscreen

Wearing sunscreen (minimum SPF30) daily, even in the winter, is the most crucial thing you can do for your skin. Sun exposure can cause skin cancer, wrinkles, loss of collagen, and problems with pigmentation. Additionally, using sunscreen will balance out your skin's tone and give hyperpigmentation and scars time to fade.

Photoshoot Time

Do you love yourself being photographed?
Do you like to make different poses and click the best pictures of yourself?

If yes, this article is for you.

Nothing beats taking pictures outside. Whatever style of photography you prefer or the subjects you enjoy photographing, a studio cannot compare to the quality of natural light. You should be aware of the best time to capture your subjects whether you want to photograph landscapes, people, or anything in between.

Unquestionably, a great photographer should be informed of what to expect when shooting outside at various times of the day and in a variety of weather situations.

Preparation is Key to Professional Results

Being well-prepared and planning your photo shoot are essential. Both your productivity and originality will increase. Your alternatives will be more limited and your planning will be more successful if you know what you hope to accomplish with the portrait photo shoot.

Therefore, how can I organize a picture shoot? You may get ready for the photos you want by visualizing them beforehand. You might think about including your model(s) during this planning phase. I like to make a list of suggestions and talk this over with my model beforehand.

Before beginning the portrait photo shoot, it is always a good idea to get a model release. Avoid putting it off till the very last minute and forgetting about it.

The location should be a part of your portrait photography

We all adore images captured in beautiful settings. There are so many well-known Instagram accounts as evidence of this.

Consider the areas you will take your model for your portrait photo shoot. You can add context to your photos to make them more engaging. To compose with, look for the finest lighting and perspectives.

Remember that getting good photos of your model is your first goal. Get imaginative if you are trying to discover an angle in a difficult area. The simplest and most effective technique is probably blurring the background. A cluttered environment can detract from your model.

For a better portrait, manage the lighting the ability to alter the lighting. Even the most handsome individual will look unflattering in a portrait photo if the lighting could be better. I believe it is advisable to utilize a camera attachment, such as a flash or reflector.

It will be possible for you to manipulate the mood of your portraits if you have the capacity to work with ambient light. You will have selected the general appearance and feel you wish to achieve during your planning. How you manage the lighting will have a big impact on this.

Softer lighting that envelops your figure while they pose will give off a more alluring vibe. The results will be appealing if you employ reflectors or diffused lights coming from multiple points in front of your model.

We hope that you have enjoyed the tips and tricks of the photoshoot. Keep enjoying your photos, and our articles, and have a beautiful canvas of lighted photos ahead.
